Internship at the Yale Consultation Center

A team of researchers, led by Joy Kaufman, Ph.D., is seeking three Interns for the summer of 2020 to join a study funded by the National Institute of Justice that is evaluating the implementation and outcomes of two promising practices to reduce the rate of domestic violence homicide.

Interns will join a team that is coding transcripts from key informant interviews that were conducted with law enforcement officers, domestic violence service providers and victims of domestic violence. Students will be trained in qualitative data coding and analysis and will work closely with research staff. In addition, students will meet with Dr. Kaufman on a regular basis to learn about the outcomes of the study and to have the opportunity to receive mentorship.

Preference is given to graduate students or advanced undergraduate students. This is an unpaid internship and students are asked to commit to 20 hours per week for 10 weeks beginning on June 1st. If interested, please submit a letter of interest and a resume/CV to Dr. Kaufman at joy.kaufman@yale.edu.
